Bloopers, Typos and Speech Wreck!

Coming Soon!

Tired of everything in our profession being about work, business, the EHR, and what technology to use next? We need some laughter! Our world is full of funny things and now you can get an Ebook that gives you a few minutes of laughter about the things we hear every day.

Bloopers, Typos and Speech Wreck is a compilation of those funny things medical transcriptionists hear every day in our work place. The doctor who gets tongue tied, the MT who goes on auto pilot and just types something that doesn't fit, and those wonderful things that the speech recognition engine gives us every day.

This fun Ebook will be released in November. You can sign up now for updates to be sure you know when it's available and get yours hot off the press! For information, go to www.kathynicholls.com and sign up for the blog updates. Announcements will be made as soon as it is available. Just in time for Christmas for your MT friends!

About the Author: Kathy Nicholls, CMT, AHDI-F, is a medical transcriptionist who believes life should be fun. She has over 25 years of experience in the industry and hopes you will enjoy this fun book!
